My aim is to assist the young cardiothoracic surgeons in becoming familiar with the best medical practices in the field of Thoracic Surgery.

During the meet, we want a free-flowing exchange of ideas and knowledge while also stimulating young surgeons towards research and professional development.

I welcome you all to the National Institute of Tuberculosis and Respiratory Diseases, New Delhi and take part in making this meeting a successful event.

Dr. Ravindra Kumar Dewan

Organizing Chairman, IACTS Thoracic CME 2022

SECRETARY'S MESSAGE

Dear all,

It is our pleasure to host the Thoracic CME of the Indian Association of cardiothoracic and vascular surgeons at the National Institute of Tuberculosis and Respiratory diseases New Delhi this year.

We would like to welcome you all for this exciting two day long academic feast designed specifically for students in a format that will help in the clinical approach to cases we all see in our OPD.

Thoracic surgery has shown immense growth in the past few years and it is our endeavour to bring national faculty from across the country for you to learn from their clinical expertise and experience in dealing with the spectrum of cases from cancer to infections of the lung. We bring to you an overview of all key patient thoracic ailments of the lung, mediastinum, diaphragm as well as the chest wall.

We are trying to make this CME very interactive and would hope that you would encourage all students to come and actively participate. The aim is not just for students to learn from the experts but also generate questions for future research and network with colleagues and seniors who have been actively promoting the development of this subspecialty.

Our humble gratitude to the Indian association of cardiothoracic and vascular surgery for giving us the opportunity to run this event. Looking forward to see all members of the IACTS here in Delhi in December with all their students

Warm Regards
Dr Pallavi Purwar
Organising Secretary
